For a finite number of n and X_1, X_2, \dots, X_n , is there a solution to the above equation that is consistent with the joint distribution of X_1, X_2, \dots, X_n ? A: Hint: If $S = \frac{X}{a+b}$, then $E[S] = \frac{aE[X] + bE[X]}{a+b}$. You can also control your PC through your iPhone or iPod Touch with the Windows 7 PC suite, which has also been integrated into the OS, making it easier to do stuff like take control of your PC from afar. Advertisement Not only that, but your iPhone or iPod Touch will also keep running apps in the background, because Windows 7 has been designed to take full advantage of the device's processing power, and most of these apps are actually pretty cool. For example, you can run Netflix in the background while you play a game on your PC. Most importantly, Windows 7 will be ready for the iPhone 4, which features a new, dedicated GPU that the older iPhone 3GS doesn't have. This means that Windows 7 can take full advantage of the iPhone 4's higher resolution display and better 3D graphics. All in all, Windows 7 seems like a pretty nice upgrade for PC owners, but the rollout is pretty slow, so it
